Additional Awards For Fruit Exhibits at Fair

The Bedford County Agricultural Society has decided to offer extra inducements for fruit exhibits this year, and orchardists are urged by the Farm Bureau and County Fruit Growers' Association to take advantage of this liberal policy on the part of the management and make an exhibit worthy of our county.

Suitable space for all exhibits will be provided, and an expert judge will be secured from the State College, insuring justice in placing awards.

Division H—Class 34

Section A—The awards in this section will be given as in the premium list, except that the collections of apples will be provided below in Section C. Awards will be made on the following basis:

A plate shall consist of five specimens of one variety, correctly named.

Condition shall count 35 points; color, 20; form, 15; size, 10; uniformity, 20; making a total of 100 points.

The award on pears, peaches, grapes, etc., shall remain as listed.

Section B, Trays—In this section the exhibit shall be made in shallow trays, of the same dimension as the surface of a standard North Western apple box, viz, 11 1/2 inches wide by 18 inches long, and about two inches in depth, making a display representing one layer of apples as packed in the Western box. In this section the following varieties may be entered and a premium of $1.00 for first and 50 cents for second shall be given on each variety listed:

Baldwin, Ben Davis, Delicious, Grimes, Gano, Fallwater, Hubbardston, Jonathan, Newtown Pippin, Rhode Island Greening, Rome Beauty, Stayman, Winter Banana, Winesap and York Imperial.

In judging this section the following score card shall be used: Pack (including alignment and compactness), 10 points; condition, 30; form, 10; color, 20; size, 10; uniformity, 20; total, 100 points.

Exhibitors should attempt to secure for this section, apples of medium size for the variety, uniform in color, form and size, and free from insect or fungous injury, packing them in regular order in the tray.

When possible exhibitors should make their own trays for this class, using for the ends three-fourths or one inch strips two inches wide, and for the sides and bottom half inch material.

Section C—Collections of apples. Ten plates for home use. Premiums $2.00, $1.00 and 50 cents.

Judged as single plates except that selections of varieties for specified purpose shall count 10 points.

SNAKE DEN IN CEMETERY AT OSTERBURG

On Monday while digging a grave in the Reformed Cemetery at Osterburg Park R. Carns and Frank Otto Sextons, found a den of copperhead snakes on an adjoining lot in a pile of rubbish which was put there some time ago. The men were removing the rubbish when they discovered the snakes of which there were 27 ranging from eight inches to three feet in length. This is a snake story but it is true.

VETERANS IN CONGRESS GO DOWN IN PRIMARIES

CONSPICUOUS FIGURES IN BOTH PARTIES MUST RETIRE AFTER MARCH 4, 1921.

WILSON HATERS PUNISHED

President's Most Bitter Opponents in Senate Relegated to Private Life

Primaries already held in many States show that a great number of conspicuous figures in Congress have been defeated for re-nomination in both parties and must retire after March 4, 1921. A few members have announced their purpose to withdraw without seeking re-election. From 50 to 100 new faces may appear in the House of Representatives, if changes continue in the States yet to hold primaries as in those have already chosen their candidates.

Three Democrat Senators who gained notoriety during the war for their antagonism to President Wilson have been ousted by their party. They are Gore, of Oklahoma; Kirby, of Arkansas, and Hoke Smith, of Georgia. Gore was defeated by Scott Ferris, Representative who made his campaign by attacking the blind Senator's opposition to the President which was marked from the time this country got into the war. Kirby was defeated by Tom Watson having also a Representative, on account of his attitude toward the Administration early in the war. Hoke Smith was defeated by Tom Watson, having made himself unpopular by his stand against Wilson.

In Alabama Representative Heflin has been nominated for the Senate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Bankhead. Representative Dent, who was chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, and who urged a volunteer system in preference to the draft, was not re-nominated.

Senator Thomas (Dem.-Colo.) who opposed the League of Nations will not return to the Senate.

In Connecticut Representative Loneragan (Dem.) has been nominated for the Senate to oppose Brandegee (Rep.)

Sherman on the Slide Senator Sherman (Rep.-Ill.) is dropping out. Representative McKinley will probably be the Republican nominee to succeed him.

Representative Jamul, of Chicago, (Rep.) is reported to have been defeated for re-nomination through the influence of Mayor Thompson. The fate of Representative Gallagher (Dem.-Ill.) is uncertain. "Uncle Joe" Cannon will return, having won the nomination after a close fight, unless he is beaten by the Democrats.

In Louisiana Representative Sanders lost out in a race for the Senate and will not return as a member of the House.

A strong fight is being waged against Senator Cummins in Iowa. Representative Altvan T. Fuller (Rep.-Mass.) who achieved distinction by telling Congress it was a bunch of barnacles on the ship of State, has won the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor of his State.

The author of the prohibition enforcement code, Representative Volstead, of Minnesota, is out of the race as Representative from Minnesota.

Representative Igoe (Dem.-Miss.) who upheld the side of the "wets" throughout the fight in Congress and who became one of the best parliamentarians on the Democratic side, is leaving Congress of his own accord after March 4. He declined to accept re-nomination.

The Non-Partisan League defeated Representative John M. Evans for re-nomination as Democratic candidate for the House in Montana.

Representative John H. Small, of North Carolina, a member of the House for 22 years, and chairman of the Rivers and Harbors Committee, was defeated for re-nomination by a younger man.

Two Pennsylvanians Drop Out In Pennsylvania two "wet" Representatives, Steel and Dewalt, are retiring from the House of their own accord.

Tennessee turned down two of its older members for re-nomination. Representative Sims (Democrat), former chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, was defeated by an ex-soldier, Walter Browning. Representative Sam R. Sells (Republican) also was defeated by an ex-soldier, Carroll Reece.

Representative John J. Esch (Republican, Wisconsin), chairman last year of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, was defeated for re-nomination. Mr. Esch was co-author with Senator Cummins, of the new transportation act and was fought by the Non-Partisan League and Senator LaFollette.

Former Representative Stafford is trying to defeat Victor Berger, twice rejected from the House, as a Representative from Wisconsin. In the First Wisconsin district former Representative Cooper, conspicuous for his fight against armed neutrality, has been re-nominated for the House, defeating Representative Randall, incumbent.

The political mix-up in Maryland is attracting nation-wide attention among the "wets" and "drys" Senators.

SHORT TALKS ON PENNA'S FORESTS

By Gifford Pinchot, Chief Forester of Pennsylvania

NO. 6 INDUSTRIAL EFFECTS OF DEVASTATION

The exhaustion of a forest creates losses which are felt far beyond the neighborhood actually devastated. As lumbering comes to an end, leaving in its wake enormous areas of idle land, a great shifting in population, commerce, and industry takes place. As the lumber camps support the forest communities, so the forest communities in large measure support the neighboring towns and cities.

There are whole counties in Pennsylvania where no argument is needed to support these statements. Potter, Lycoming, Tioga, Cameron and numerous other counties that were once chiefly noted for their lumbering, all contain striking examples of what forest devastation will do.

Residents of these counties who are still young can vividly recall the rapid passing of prosperous communities into abandoned and desolate groups of buildings, such as the town of Cross Fork and many another.

If the cut-over areas of Pennsylvania had been put to work growing trees as rapidly as they were shorn there would be little cause to lament the fact that the lumber had been cut. For even though temporarily the local timber supply was lost, the time of its return would not be far ahead. But devastated lands are a total loss. They not only grow nothing profitable themselves, but are a real menace to all the surrounding country; and the balance of the state, by its import of timber, pays out the money and lends to distant forest regions the prosperity which should be kept at home.

It would be just as reasonable that Iowa should import corn, or that California should depend upon Florida for its oranges, as that Pennsylvania, with thirteen million acres of forest lands, should depend upon the Pacific slope for its lumber.

When lumbering shifts from exhausted to new and unexploited regions, only a small part of the commerce and industry it developed can shift with it. Most of it fades out and dies. As region after region is lumbered and cut out, prosperity is not merely shifted, but much of it is permanently lost.

This prosperity can be saved and stabilized in Pennsylvania. We are guilty of a gross economic crime if we fail to save and stabilize it.

If we adopt the principles of forest conservation the forest which will grow from now on will not be tangled or wilderness, left untouched for a century or so and then ripped off so as to leave the country desolate and poor. Instead they will be carefully tended and protected and, once established, will be permanently productive. Work in the forest will become a regular and permanent business. The new forests will be cut no faster than they grow, just as the stockman keeps up his herd and still sells off his increase.

The coming of the new forests will make steady and profitable odd-time and full-time work for the neighboring settlements. With them will come more people, new wood-working industries, and better local markets for farm products. When there is pulp and cordwood, logs and lumber to be cut, it will be possible to get and keep such road and railroad transportation as farming land alone could not maintain.

EXHIBIT YOUR FRUIT AT THE BEDFORD COUNTY FAIR

At a conference of the officers of the Bedford County Fruit Growers Association with the County Farm Agent, L. R. Mollenauer, on Sept. 15th it was decided that we appeal to the fruit growers of the County that they take a fair sample of their fruit to the County fair for exhibition. We want to make this the best fruit exhibit ever held in the County and we call upon you to have a pride in your fruit and your country. Arrangements are being made to have the fruit judged by a State College fruit judge so that all fruit will be judged on its merits. Now arrange for it and have all your fruit in not later than Tuesday of fair week. The fair management have promised us ample room for all exhibits. Let us make a commendable showing for old Bedford County.

WILLIAM LAUDER PASSES AWAY

Business Man, Man of Culture. Good School Man. Mason of High Rank.

On the morning of Friday, 17th inst. William Lauder departed this life at his home at Riddlesburg after a protracted illness, when Bedford County lost one of its most valued citizens and the State a devoted public servant. He is survived by Mary E. Lauder whom he married July 29, 1874. Mrs. Lauder's father was the Hon. C. W. Ashcom who in his day was one of the County's leading citizens. He leaves the following children: Mrs. L. B. Shaw of Harrisburg, Mrs. Archie Rice and Mrs. Fred Gage of Philadelphia, Miss Edna at home, William Jr. now in Japan, and Robert J. Midian, Kan. Mr. Lauder was born Jan. 28, 1849, at Lauder, Scotland and came to this country when an infant, residing at Jersey City for ten years till the death of his mother when he returned to the place of his birth. Under the influence of the sturdy stock from which he sprang there was then laid the foundation for that business career which he was destined to follow, in his apprenticeship of four years to a Scotch banking house, upon the close of which he returned to the United States.

Louis T. Watson, then President of the Huntingdon & Broad Top R. R., and his associated capitalists who were largely interested in the industrial development of the Broad Top Region, saw in young Lauder the type of man to be their accounting officer in the new enterprise of the Kemble Coal & Iron Company, and this young man on Oct. 15th, 1887, was assigned to head this department and so well did he meet the expectations of his friends that the furnace Company made him its Superintendent in 1871 at the unprecedented age of twenty two. From this time till July 15th, 1915, Mr. Lauder was Superintendent and later General Manager, of the furnace operations at Riddlesburg retaining after the latter date till his death an official and advisory relation with the Company, whose business had been reorganized in the meantime under the present Corporation the Colonial Iron Company. More than fifty years of Mr. Lauder's life therefore were bound up in development of this single industry which has been a potent factor in the industrial life not only of this County but of the State as well.

But he was not a one sided man. He was born to render service to others and willingly and most unselfishly did he bestow it. He was a man of broad culture and education and deeply informed on social, economic and industrial problems so that when he concluded to relinquish the responsibilities of furnace management he was appointed by the Governor as Secretary of the Industrial Board in the Department of Labor and Industry at Harrisburg, the duties of which were most congenial to his talents and intelligence till illness required their relinquishment.

The work, however, in which he seemed to take the greatest pride was the betterment of our common school system and in this his efforts were untiring. For thirty years he was a school director in Broad Top Township, during which time his schools were brought to a high state of efficiency and their example, felt throughout the County. He crowned his years of devotion to this work in securing the passage of an Act by the Legislature for the appointment of a Commission to codify the school laws of the State, of which body he was a leading member. The work of this Commission finally became the School Code under which a mighty constructive movement for common school advancement has been inaugurated. Governor Tenner appointed him a member of the State Board of Education in recognition of his able and faithful service, which position he held till the time of his death.

All of these honors came in consequence of his life of unwavering devotion to the cause of human betterment and of the high ideals he held aloft as his guide and which found expression in the noble character of his exalted manhood and in the influence he made effective through the Methodist Church, of which he was a faithful member, and the Sunday School of which he had been the Superintendent for more than fifty years. It was natural, therefore, that he should be a member of the Masonic Fraternity in which he held high degrees. He was a man—take him all in although he held high station in the councils of his party, to the principles of which he was consistently attached. In the Roosevelt campaign of 1904 he was on the ticket as Presidential Elector.

His home life was beautiful. Piety, love and kindness there reigned supreme. No higher type of man than William Lauder lived in his day in Bedford County broad minded, liberal, charitable, devoid of all guile or envy, his life an example and he will be missed from the roll of as Presidential Elector.

friends by those who cherish his memory. Of him it can well be said, he was a man—take him all in all—We soon shall not see his like again."

PLANE SERVICE WILL START IN NOVEMBER

Passengers to be carried over Local Route.

Passengers as well as mail will be carried on three air mail routes, contracts for which were awarded yesterday to the Lawson Airline Company of Chicago by the post-office department.

The first service will start between Pittsburgh and Indianapolis, via Columbus and Cincinnati, in November.

Palatial air liners, with wicker chairs inclosed in glass-windowed, steam-line bodies, are being built for the new service, officials of the company announced.

The government contract provides that each plane must carry 1,500 pounds of mail per trip. In addition the company is providing accommodations for 16 passengers, the latter end of the business being a private venture. Three hundred and six round trips are to be made yearly on each route.

Service on the New-York Chicago and New York-Atlantic routes probably will not be inaugurated until spring. Connecting air lines between Cleveland and Detroit and Chicago and Indianapolis probably will be open later, the company announced, and bids made for the mail-carrying contract.

A night service on the lines will be started and standard berths will be part of the equipment. Floyd K. Smith, assistant general manager of the company said Shower baths and all modern conveniences will be installed, he stated.

Half-hour stops will be made at each of the stations and the company will open restaurants on the air fields for the service of the passengers.

HOW TO TREAT DRUNKEN DRIVERS

Judge Evans set an example to the police magistrates of Pittsburgh when he sentenced a man to four months in the workhouse for driving an automobile under the influence of liquor. And there was an implied rebuke for those who have been letting off intoxicated operators of motor cars with light fines in the Judge's remark that if the magistrates obeyed the law and held such miscreants for court he would see that the guilty were put in prison.

To show mercy to these offenders is to show the reverse of mercy to the public. There should be more consideration for the people, particularly children, whose lives the intoxicated drivers take or imperil. The toll taken by careless drivers, as a result of unexpected mishaps, is deplorably large and it is cruelly unfair to increase further the risk by refusing to consider as a serious offense the operation of a machine by a man whose wits have been befuddled with drink. That is what some of the police court Judges have been doing (by discharging these fellows on payment of a $5 or $10 penalty. If the magistrates were conscientious they would disregard any personal inclination to extend leniency, for they are clearly required by the law to impose a heavier sentence than some of them have been giving.

If automobile fatalities are to be lessened, drivers must be held to strict account for their actions. So many warnings have been given that no further excuse can be found for failure to observe the law. Sympathy will be wasted on offenders brought to book. Intoxicated drivers deserve nothing better than to be put behind the bars.

Arrivals and Departures of Residents and Visitors

IN THE SOCIAL WORLD

The Column Everybody Reads—Chat About Your Friends and Neighbors—Here and There.

F. S. Cook, of Hyndman, was a Bedford visitor last Saturday.

Thomas Eichelberger, of Everett, was in Bedford on Wednesday.

G. S. Kagarise, of Salemville, was a Bedford visitor on Wednesday.

W. B. Weyant of Imier transacted business here on Tuesday.

J. E. Emerick, of Ellerslie, Md., was a Bedford visitor one day last week.

Samuel C. Diehl of Lutzville was transacting business in our city Saturday.

Atty. S. H. Sell was in Altoona on Tuesday and made a speech at a Republican political rally.

Edward Hughes has returned to Staunton, Va. where he will resume his studies at the Military Academy.

John S. Guyer of South Woodbury Township was transacting business in Bedford on Wednesday.

Claude Smith, of Pittsburgh, is visiting relatives and friends in and around Bedford.

Miss Elizabeth Thompson left Wednesday for Baltimore, Md. where she will resume her studies at Goucher College.

Austin Wright successfully completed the college entrance examinations conducted at Haverford College last week.

Mrs. Ambrose Leonard and Little son, Max, of Hollidaysburg, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Leonard.

Mrs. Clarence Snively and three daughters, of Altoona, were visitors recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Pleacher of West Pitt street.

Mrs. Emma Treece and son, Meryl, and Mrs. Dewey Treece, of Hummel, Huntingdon County, spent Sunday visiting relatives in Bedford.

Miss Vera Fletcher has returned to Swathmore college after spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fletcher of East Penn Street.

The women of Bedford township ought to petition the court to have their names placed on the registration list to qualify to vote at the November election. The assessor failed to do his duty and thus the women did not get on the list. They are doing this other places where assessors failed to do their duty and they can do it here. So get busy.

Miss Elizabeth Madore entertained the Senior Class of the Bedford High School, of which she is a member, with an auto ride to Juniata Crossings on Tuesday evening. Upon the return from the trip, refreshments were served at her home on South Richard Street. All the members of the class except Victor Colvin, of Schellsburg were in attendance.

BROAD TOP ELECTRICAL DEVELOPMENTS AND ADVANTAGES

Just how wide a scope of utilitarian usefulness will be provided by the new Broad Top Power Co., which is to be located at Riddlesburg as soon as buildings have been erected and equipment installed, is indicated in an announcement just made by those interested in the project, showing what a power plant of this sort can do for mills and farms.

This announcement embraces, in general, equipment and apparatus which has been perfected within the last ten years. Machine shops, planing mills, silk and shoe factories, foundries and miscellaneous plants have been made more productive with the introduction of electricity. The small motor, designed particularly for factory use, has been a boon to industry, reaching its greatest sphere of usefulness wherever central station power is obtainable.

Going further than this, however, the announcements by Broad Top Power interests shows what a multitude of industrial machines has come into use with electricity, increasing production and lessening ultimate costs. Cartridge heating units, soldering irons, glue pots, soldering iron furnaces, electric ovens and a host of general appliances from ventilators to elevators are in the long list.

About 7500 central stations exist in the United States, and over 5,000,000 electric motors were in use at the end of 1919. Development such as the Broad Top Power Co. contemplates will help to swell these figures in the next few years. The agricultural field will doubtless do its part, for today the farmer can perform no less than 125 different chores by electricity.

INTERESTING LETTER COMES FROM JAPAN

Kyoto, Japan, Aug. 29, 1920.

The Bedford Gazette, Bedford, Pa. I am addressing this letter principally to the Sunday School members of Bedford County. I could take up most any subject and tell of much I have seen in Japan. Things, everyone of them are so different from those back home, the people, their habits, their stores, farms, temples and castles and their beautiful gardens. Their wonderful small trees are raised in earthen pots as we raise flowers, but many of these miniature trees are fifty or more years old.

I could tell you of the man power for transportation and of their various carts and vehicles; of the women and even little children with babies strapped to their backs the live-long day. In fact, everything is different even the flies, for they have none or very few, but I'm going to talk Sunday School in this letter and tell you the most wide awake Sunday School meetings I have ever been in.

First, to the shame of the Committees in charge of the tours for our delegates, we would have seen just what they feed all tourists on when they come here, temples and shrines and old and ancient things till one gets sick and tired of it. A regular Cooks tour never takes you to a Christian Mission Station, shame on our American people who will stand for it. But you will be taken all over the land and shown Budda and Shinto temples and horrible Shinto, etc., gods of love that would scare love out of any believer and gods of heaven that would make the devil himself take a back seat for fierceness of features.

The tour I'm on is the very first to visit Japan. It's one of the longest and more extensive tours covering more completely than the others Japan, Korea, Manchuria, China and the Philippines and here we are, a Sunday School delegation, sightseeing on Sunday and visiting shrines and temples till we decided to "strike," as you'd say in America, and we changed our plans.

Last Sunday morning over at Yamada, the twenty of us created a commotion by making our "ricksha men" take us to a little Presbyterian Mission and we got there about the time Sunday School was half over. We, of course, created commotion enough in going into the school. All those foreigners coming in, well what could it mean? The pastor of that church died about six months ago and no one could speak English but we behaved quietly and a hymn was started, the tune and the words "Jesus loves me this I know" and when joined in the singing and they saw we were friends, well, Sam Koontz or any other music leader would have felt real pride in listening to these twenty five or thirty children. Then another hymn was sung. They had no hymn books, but had the words written in Japanese on a good sized chart which was in front and which the children read. Then a lady, seemingly the superintendent, asked another lady to lead in prayer and, let me say that then and each place we have been since every one enters into a hearty Amen at the end of a prayer.

About that time a gentleman came in and we found he could talk English pretty well. He told us he was the Assistant Pastor and that he would preach that evening but we, of course, had to leave at 5:20 and could not be there, but he told the school then who we were and, dear friends in Bedford County, if there is among you a doubting Thomas as to the work of the Foreign Missions, you'd change your minds in a minute if you could have seen the happiness that came into their faces then and could have heard them, in closing, turn, face us and push those little arms straight up in the air and shout "Banzai, banzai, banzai," three times, meaning "Good luck, long life." We had a happy time after the service when many came forward and bowed to the floor to us.

The first Christian of Yamada, an old woman, was there. She accepted Christ 30 years ago and told us how she was persecuted for her change in faith. I had some aluminum coins in my pocket about the size of a silver dollar with the Lord's Prayer on one side and John 3:16 on the other side and, when she was told what it was she bowed and bowed. As we were leaving that evening the children, led by the pastor, brought us a wonderful bouquet of flowers.

The assistant pastor is only a layman, a teacher, who, like we laymen at home, devotes much time to the work of Christ among his own people. And, before I forget it I want to say that I have since met many native teachers and native Missionaries and we are proud of every one. I have met three, and this assistant pastor was one who studied at North Japan College at Sendai, a Reformed Church College, and where Arthur Smith, a Missionary supported by the Reformed church of Bedford is teaching English at the present time. This same Arthur Smith rode all night in a second class day coach to reach

HARDING WOULD LEAD THE NATION BACKWARD CLAIMS MR. GOMPERS

Defines Positions of Two Candidates Aspiring to Presidency

SAYS G. O. P. TURNED BACK UPON LABOR

Impossible to Return to Conditions as They Were Before War

Washington, Sept. 26.—Writing in the current issue of the American Federationist under the title "Normalcy vs. Progress," Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, says Senator Harding, the Republican candidate, has summed up his position as in favor of "going backward," while Gov. Cox, the Democratic candidate, has declared for "going forward."

Mr. Gompers also says that the Republican national convention, in adopting its platform, "turned its back upon labor," and declares that "every American worker, every earnest American citizen must strive ardently for the defeat of those who turned their back upon labor and upon people generally."

"The two leading candidates for the presidency have defined clearly their attitude toward the great public issues of today," says Mr. Gompers' article, which was made public today by the labor federation. "In a sentence each has summed up his position."

Two Varying Positions. "In effect Senator Harding says: 'Let us return to normalcy.' "Gov. Cox says: 'I am for progress.' "Senator Harding does not use the word 'normal.' He speaks of 'normalcy.' The word is obsolete and so is the condition to which he would return.

"Unquestionably in the mind of Senator Harding, a return to normal means a return to the conditions that existed before the war—a return to something that is past. It is clear then that, in keeping with the spirit of the Republican platform, Senator Harding's personal desire is to follow a course that leads the nation backward and, if elected to lead the nation in such a course."

"Gov. Cox proclaims a desire to go forward and a determination to lead the nation in a forward course if he is elected to presidency."

"Both of these statements are abstractions and of themselves mean nothing beyond a definition of the candidates. The important fact is, however, that the platform of the parties upon which these candidates stand and their own personal philosophies lead inevitably and naturally up to the conclusions found in those brief utterances."

"The denial of any desire on the part of the American people to go backward to anything that is past

Democrats Ask Credit For Falling in Prices

George White, chairman of the Democratic national committee, in a statement issued here yesterday, declared he awaited acknowledgement from Senator Harding that the Democratic administration deserved credit for the cut in commodity prices throughout the country.

"The morning newspapers of all shades of political opinion carried the news that prices are coming down," said Mr. White. "I wonder whether Senator Harding and Republican orators will give the Democratic administration credit for it."

"They are unanimous in the charge that the administration was responsible for the high cost of living and for failing to check its advance. By the same reasoning, since that administration still is in power, since the Republican congress did nothing effective in this direction, and since the government departments have been busy, the Democrats must be responsible for the drop."

Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, declined to discuss the drop in prices reported in the papers, saying that the question was "economic and not political."

RECEPTION FOR NEWLY-WEDS

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip F. Schech of East Penn street was the scene of a festive occasion when a wedding reception and luncheon were given in honor of their son Charles and his bride. After a hearty welcome by the host and hostess and the usual formalities to the newly-weds, the guests were escorted to the dining room, which was tastefully decorated. The predominating color scheme used in the decorations was purple and gold, class colors of the bride, and those used in crepe paper combined with roses, bridal wreath and many colorful autumn flowers, proved a most effective arrangement. Ninety-two persons including 20 from out-of-town, participated in this banquet. The bride received a host of pretty and useful gifts, including linen, cut glass, china, furniture, etc. Mr. and Mrs. Schech will reside in Johnstown where the former holds a position with the Cambria Steel Co.

WOMEN REGARD DUTIES OF SUFFRAGE EARNESTLY

PASSAGE OF NINETEENTH AMENDMENT PUTS BEFORE THEM TASK OF STUDYING ISSUE AND CANDIDATES FOR INTELLIGENT USE OF THE BALLOT.

Governor Cox's Record on..... Important Legislation

When Tennessee cast the vote that ratified the Nineteenth Amendment her action added 20,000,000 new voters to the American electorate. Connecticut's action clinched the result. About twenty six million women in all will be entitled in the coming election to express their choice of candidates by ballot.

The right of suffrage is an old story to men and in exercising his right he has not always been painstaking in informing himself upon issues and the fitness of the men who seek his support. Will the women voters follow suit? Or will she take her political opinions on faith from her men folk and so give the Nineteenth Amendment no more significance than that of a mere doubling of the voting strength of parties without disturbing the ratio?

The war brought to women a greatly enlarged sphere and a realizing sense of her own independence. It made her conscious of the truth that without any sacrifice of the dignity of woman she could take a part that would contribute to the winning of the war. This consciousness gave a tremendous impetus to the cause of woman suffrage. When men realize that a great majority of women desire the ballot they freely give it to them. Now that she has her first opportunity to put to the test her newly acquired right she is eager to give proof that she is prepared to make an intelligent use of it and is losing no opportunity to equip herself to that end.

Issues and Candidates Scrutinized

Perhaps never before in any Presidential campaign have the issues and candidates been the subject of such study and scrutiny as are those in the present campaign. Since the birth of the race man, has been the favorite study of womankind, and in this campaign she is studying him, his motives, his methods, his pledges and arguments with a new purpose and armed with a new power. She is eager for everything that will give her light on the political question she is studying, and the seriousness with which she regards her new duty has become an example and an inspiration to her men folk.

Naturally those questions and issues which have a direct bearing on the home, the family, child welfare, morals, education, and domestic economies have a first interest for her, even though she is alive to the importance of questions of an international nature. In the study of these questions which hold her interest in a special way she is analyzing the character of the candidates, their careers in office, their achievements or failures and their attitude on issues before the nation. When the voters of the state have elected a man to three terms as the chief executive in the study of politics is bound to admit that there are reasons for it greater than mere popularity. James M. Cox, Governor of Ohio for three terms, has a personality that wins the hearts of the voters, but it is not this alone that brought to him their suffrages in his three triumphs. It was the measures affected by him in the interest of the workmen, the farmer, the business man and, more especially, women and children.

Women Measure Candidate's Fitness.

Of course, all of the reforms put through by Governor Cox have had an importance to women for it is impossible to dissociate the interest of men from those of their women folk. But it is those which had a direct bearing on the lives and welfare of the family breadwinner by which the great majority of women will measure the candidate's worth and fitness. Of these latter measures were the workmen's compensation law, since accepted as a model for other states, and those laws designated to safe guard the lives of men employed in the mining districts.

The measures affecting women and children have been more radical in their nature than any of the others enacted. They include:

- Extra provisions for dependents of men killed in mines.
- Elimination of sweatshop labor.
- Provision for minimum wage and nine-hour working day for women.
- Codification of Child Laws, with establishment of Child Welfare Department.
- Compulsory provisions for Mothers' Pensions.
- Placing the educational facilities of the rural districts on a par with those in the city.
- Laws to provide against adulteration of food stuff and to prevent combinations to fix prices.
- Establishment of a bureau for juvenile research.
- Laws for supervision and support of schools.
- Recommendation and passage of

POULTRY

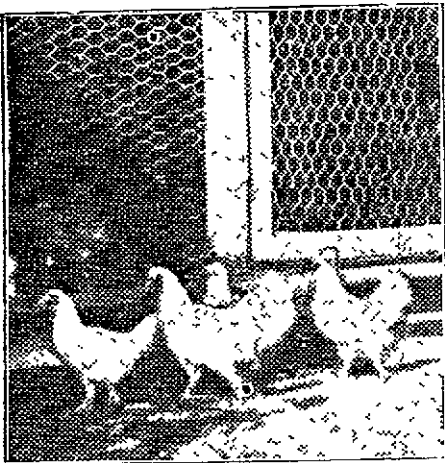

MITES ARE MOST INJURIOUS

Little Insects Suck Blood of Hen and Seriously Affect Her Ability to Lay Eggs.

If the best results are to be expected from the poultry flock, the buildings must not be allowed to become overrun with mites. Mites are more troublesome and more harmful than lice. They do not live upon the birds like the lice, but during the day hide in the cracks and crevices of the roosts and walls of the house, and at night they come out and get upon the fowls. They suck the hen's blood, and if allowed to become plentiful—as they certainly will if not destroyed—will seriously affect her health and consequently her ability to lay eggs.

Mites may be eradicated by a few thorough applications of kerosene or some of the coal-tar products which are sold for this purpose, or crude petroleum, to the interior of the poultry house.

The commercial coal-tar products are more expensive but retain their killing power longer, and they may be cheapened by reducing with an equal part of kerosene. Crude petroleum will spray better if thinned with one part of kerosene to four parts of the crude oil, according to poultry specialists of the United States department of agriculture. Both the crude petroleum and the coal-tar products often contain foreign particles, so should be strained before attempting to spray. One must be sure that the spray reaches all of the cracks and crevices, giving especial attention to the roosts, dropping-boards, and nests, and the treatment should be repeated two or three times at intervals of a week or 10 days.

Open Front House Is Best for Summer—It Is Easy to Keep Clean.

GUINEA FOWLS ARE FAVORED

Hardest of All Domestic Poultry and Great Hustlers—They Keep Away Marauders.

There is no good reason why more guineas should not be kept on the farm. They are just about the hardest of all domestic fowls, and perhaps also the greatest hustlers, yet they seldom do their hustling to the injury of the garden or lawn. While quite domestic in their habits if treated gently, their wild nature leads them to remote parts of the homestead, where they pick up a large part of their living that would be overlooked by any other kind of fowl.

On farms infested with hawks, guineas are very valuable, their vigorous protests against every approach of the foe actually frighten them away. And no strange cat or dog can come on the place without their emphatic protest.

GOOD SHELTER FOR TURKEYS

Plain, Substantial House of Shed-Roof Type, Dry and Ventilated Is Recommended.

A plain, substantial house of the shed-roof type, dry, amply lighted and well ventilated is the better way for providing shelter for turkeys.

Such a house simplifies the keeping of turkeys, and has many commendable features, for the successful turkey farmer, besides making easy the care and attention necessary at certain seasons of the year.

TURNING EGGS FOR HATCHING

Not Necessary, According to Professor Kaupp, Expert of North Carolina Station.

Turning eggs while saving them for hatching although generally recommended and practiced by poultry keepers is believed to be unnecessary. Rather thorough tests conducted by Prof. B. F. Kaupp of North Carolina station show no gain in hatchability of eggs turned every day over similar lots which were kept undisturbed until placed in the incubator.

FOWLS GET LAZY IN SUMMER

Some Hens Are So Inactive That They Do Not Earn Their Feed During Hot Weather.

As a rule hens do not show great activity during hot weather, but there are some which become so lazy that they are not worth their feeding. Those are the hens that cut down their egg yield. Hot weather is worse for hens than cold weather, for during the winter months a hen with any life in her will busy her self to keep warm

FARM ANIMALS

KILL ALL HARMFUL ANIMALS

Annual Loss Wrought by Predatory Wild Beasts and Rodents Mounts Up Into Millions.

Live stock and wool valued at $20,000,000 are lost annually through the depredations of wild animals. The value of farm produce and forage destroyed each year by rodents is approximately $300,000,000. It is estimated that the households of this country sustain an annual loss from rats and mice of $200,000,000.

These figures sum up certain of the larger losses due to destructive wild life which the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture is engaged in reducing as rapidly as possible. A force of between 400 and 500 experienced hunters was employed by this bureau during the past year to kill predatory animals, many of which were infected with rabies; this disease often is spread from the wild creatures to domestic animals, and frequently endangers humans. In this work of extermination the states and numerous private organizations have had an important share.

Live Stock and Wool Valued at Millions of Dollars Are Destroyed Annually by Predatory Animals, Chief of Which Are Wolves and Coyotes.

The work of killing rodents—prairie dogs, ground squirrels, jack rabbits and cottontails, pocket gophers, native mice, wood rats, cotton rats, etc.—is also carried on with the co-operation of the states. During the past fiscal year ground squirrels were poisoned on more than 14,000,000 acres. In one Idaho county alone 40,000 rabbits were killed. In the same period from 75 to 95 per cent of the prairie dogs found on a total of 2,200,000 acres were destroyed.

BANK FAVORS BETTER SIRES

Concern at Fond du Lac, Wis., Urges Its Patrons to Improve Quality of Stock.

With the publication of a four-page farm news leaflet, of which a current copy is a "Duroc Sale and Pig Club Number," a bank at Fond du Lac, Wis., is encouraging its patrons to improve their live stock. The editor of the sheet has the unique title of "bank agriculturist," and his activities are devoted largely to financing farmers who wish to acquire well-bred animals or to become joint owners in valuable sires.

In a letter to the United States department of agriculture the bank agriculturist calls attention to the support being given hog-cholera control, pig-club work, and other activities in which the government is active. The leaflet contains a "For Sale and Want Column," relating especially to live stock, gives current news among breeders, and contains discussions ranging from the cure of cattle to the handling of bees. An expressed purpose of the bank's activities is "to make Fond du Lac county a land where milk and honey flows."

RATION OF COTTONSEED MEAL

One Pound Per Day for Each 1,000 Pounds Live Weight Is Most Satisfactory.

One pound of cottonseed meal per day for each 1,000 pounds live weight is the most satisfactory quantity to feed work animals, according to recent experiments conducted by the United States department of agriculture. A test in feeding cottonseed meal to work horses and mules at the government farm, Beltsville, Md., was begun in 1918, and continued last year. When the meal was fed in large quantities harmful effects were apparent, however, indicating that cottonseed meal, like any other high-protein feed must be fed with care to horses and mules.

BLACKLEG VACCINE IS FREE

Department Report Shows That 3,339,815 Doses Were Distributed During Last Year.

Vaccine for immunizing cattle against blackleg is still in great demand. A report of the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, shows that 3,339,815 doses were distributed free to stock owners during the last fiscal year. The vaccine sent out by the bureau is in the powdered form

LOVE MIRACLE

By AUGUSTUS G. SHERWIN

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

She was a blooming widow of thirty-five and looked ten years younger. When she appeared at the home of her closest friend, Mrs. Ross Ewing, at Exmoor, the latter truthfully told her that she seemed as far from wrinkles as when she had first known her in girlhood.

"You certainly must have discovered the fountain of youth, Laurette," familiarly observed Mrs. Ewing. "Four years a widow, and many girl of eighteen would envy your dazzling beauty. What is the secret of your growing charm?"

"Love," softly and with a certain degree of shyness whispered Laurette Winthrop. She blushed, but soon regained the poise that ever distinguished her as a woman not afraid of telling the truth and entirely devoid of any silly affectation. "And why not my dear? It was quite a home-made match—my marriage with poor dear Alvin—one of convenience brought about by our respective families. He was an honest, good natured, kindly fellow, who indulged all my whims and whom I thought enough of to respect and never quarrel with. We got along nicely, without any gush or pretense, and when he died I missed him more than I can tell. But that is all past now. There have been four lonely years. Two years ago I met a man I shall never forget, nor he me, I truly believe. There came illness for him and he became a changed man. We drifted apart because he became a perfect hypochondriac in his ailment—lost all interest in life, sank into a hermitlike mood and sent me word that as a broken man he could have no hopes that our pleasant friendship could continue."

"And you still love him?" "I can help him—that is why I come to you. His physician says he needs someone to rouse him from his lethargy. While he has grown thin and pale and ambitious, his doctor says half of his indisposition is imagination, pure and simple."

"Who is he, Laurette?" "His name is Irvin Throop."

"Why! It cannot be he who last week took the Morton place near the lake?"

"The same," replied Laurette. "And therefore I have come to you, who are a revivifying force wherever you exert your influence. You rule unquestioned in Exmoor here. What you promulgate is law, with ready aids at command to carry out what you design. You can bring Irvin Throop out of his dark mood, you can help me lead him back to the love for me which has changed to his morbid fear for himself."

Mrs. Ewing looked startled, puzzled and essentially inquisitive. "You see," continued Laurette, "at Paxton Mr. Throop was coddled, sympathized with and made to believe that he was in a dying condition. The doctor insisted that he must get a change. It took him no further than locating here. If the same system of tactics is kept up, it will do him no good. Through your wise womanly ways he should be a ready subject. This is what I have thought out," and Laurette confidentially imparted to her closest friend just what she had thought out.

"I am going back to Paxton," said Laurette. "I can hardly stay here to have his relatives say that I am chasing him down."

"But I can invite you here, after awhile."

"Yes, when you have rescued the invalid from his gloom and melancholy."

"And he views you with the old time bright eyes?" smiled Mrs. Ewing. "I think time will work the charm, dear."

"In your skilled hands, surely!" replied Laurette with confidence. They had humored the whims of the notional patient at Paxton and the dolorous atmosphere surrounding him had made of Irving Throop a confirmed misanthrope. A case of nerves had grown into a bugaboo of fancy and dread.

Mrs. Ewing had summoned and posted her emissaries. It was something of a novelty and stimulant to Irvin Throop to have people meet him and treat him as if he was a normal fellow creature instead of a confirmed invalid, a physical wreck. No one condescended with him, no one told him he looked pale and weak. Every-body hailed him with cheery, friendly greeting. He was ashamed to mention his ailments to people who apparently observed no trace of them in his bearing.

The fair plotter, Mrs. Ewing, fairly led, dragged and held him in a new social bondage that began to interest him. She coaxed him into tennis. He was an excellent player and believed the compliments he received as to his expertness in the sport.

In fact, within a month Irvin Throop was a new being. There was no time for moping among the jolly group who were determined to win him back to seeing only the bright side of life. One day he wrote to Laurette, telling her of his recovery. The bridge was passed. Laurette knew that she had triumphed.

"There was only this to round out the world's sweetness," he whispered to Mrs. Ewing the day she sent for Laurette, who, strolling among the flowers in the garden, was regarded rapidly by her old time and now new lover.

"Go and tell her so," advised the artful plotter.

CORROBORATION

OF INTEREST TO BEDFORD READERS

For months Bedford citizens have seen in these columns enthusiastic praise of Doan's Kidney Pills by Bedford residents. Would these prominent people recommend a remedy that had not proved reliable? Would they confirm their statements after years had elapsed if personal experience had not shown the remedy to be worthy of endorsement? The following statement should carry conviction to the mind of every Bedford reader.

W. H. Weyant, 243 West Pitt St., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills aren't a new medicine to me. I have used them off and on for a number of years and wouldn't be without them. I have to be on my feet a great deal and do a lot of heavy lifting at times, this brings on backache and other kidney ailments. A few of Doan's Kidney Pills always drive the attacks away."

OVER SIX YEARS LATER, Mr. Weyant said: "I still have a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills. I use them occasionally when I feel in need of a kidney medicine and they soon make me well."

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Weyant had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

When a Woman is Nervous—Worried

Most women neglect their health, and for this they pay the penalty. Any woman will find that neglect does not pay. A little more attention to health would brighten up her life. If she asks her neighbors she finds that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription benefits a woman's whole system. It not only acts upon the troubles and weaknesses peculiar to women, but is an all-round tonic that braces the entire body, overcoming nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches, dizziness and a run-down condition.

WILKES-BARRE, PA.—"A few years ago I went down in health; my nerves were bad and I became very weak and thin and would have severe pains in my head. I also suffered with backaches. I could not sleep at night. I was so nervous, and was not able to do any work. I doctored and took medicines but could find nothing that would give me any relief until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and this completely restored my health. I regained my weight and my general health was much better than it had been previously. Knowing how beneficial the 'Prescription' was in my case I feel safe in recommending it."—MRS. Some gossips of Rodmore learned that Miss Teresa Martin had been seen in the next town purchasing a pipe, an ash tray and a fancy smoking-stand. At once in their inquisitive, babbling circle the decision was arrived at that the lady in question was about to become a devotee of the weed.

A little later, after a shopping visit to the city, one of her packages was left in the train. The conductor restored it to her, but not until he had informed his wife that it had contained a pair of lounging slippers, man's size, and the imputation spread that Miss Martin had a beau and was going to get married. Several busybodies visited Miss Martin hoping to get a sight of the suspicious articles enumerated, but obtained no sight of the same.

"Those old cats!" volubly denounced little Matilda Brown, the maid whom Miss Martin employed, and who was true blue and full of love toward the kind mistress who treated her as considerably as she would a relative. She was talking to a neighbor. "The idea! They just came snooping around to see if they could get hold of some mean thing to say about the loveliest lady in the world. Why haven't they got sense enough to guess that Miss Martin has been making some presents to her cousins down at Evansville, who got married last month?"

But Matilda's mind was full of secret uneasiness while she thus defended her beloved mistress, and she marveled at a great mystery concealed within the precincts of the pretty little cottage home. For neither smoking outfit nor slippers had been sent away. They reposed at that very moment in a room which recently Miss Martin had transformed from a library into a den, and a man's den, at that. She kept that special apartment securely locked up when strangers were around, but she could not hide its existence from Matilda. Bit by bit she had furnished it, and as various articles of comfort and luxury adapted to mankind solely were set in place, Matilda solved the enigma to her own satisfaction in the cautious soliloquy:

"She's got an imaginary husband!"

Yes, Matilda had correctly figured out the puzzle, and soon she knew a great deal more about it. Miss Martin, twenty-six, but still girlish, had never been wooed. She regretted the fact as she grew older, for life was monotonous and lonely. There was only one epistle in her life that had approximated real interest in a member of the other sex on her part. About a year previous Alan Frisbie, whom she had known since he was a schoolmate, had come to her on the score of long-time friendship.

"Teresa," he had said, "I am not doing well in this town, and I want to try my luck further west. I need $200, and I want you to loan it to me if you have it and can spare it, to be faithfully repaid later. I wish to leave as security my dead mother's diamond ring, worth more than the amount."

"You offend me by hinting at such a thing as security," declared Teresa, but he pressed the pledge upon her. Then, with tears in his eyes he lifted her hand to his lips and kissed it, and wept with deep emotion.

"You are the ablest of womankind, Teresa, and life is worth a lot if it has been only to find such a true, good friend!"

A month later from a thousand miles distant there came a brief note, enclosing a few pressed violets which the wanderer had gathered on the top of one of the loftiest mountains in the West. After that silence and dreams.

Somehow the impressionable nature of Teresa craved some object to sentimentally consider. Her romance took the form of fitting up a room just as if it was for a husband, and she loved to sit there in the gloaming and think of the man who might never return, but who was a fond memory to her devoted soul.

Of all this—the treasured violets, the emotional moods of her gentle, kindly mistress—Matilda became fully aware, and enjoyed a stolen participation in the secret. It was months later, and Miss Martin had gone to the city and left her in charge of the house, when there came a summons at the street door, and there stood the returned wanderer. He looked eager and prosperous, he was cheery and friendly with Matilda. She had always liked him, she liked him better than ever now as, in her simple way, she debated with herself as to how far she dared venture to employ a present golden opportunity to let Alan Frisbie know just where he stood in the estimation of Miss Martin. Finally she decided.

"Mr. Frisbie," she said, "Miss Teresa will be mighty glad to see you."

"Think so?" replied Frisbie, all smiles.

"Yes, let me show you something," and Matilda secured the key of the den. She unlocked the door and ushered Frisbie into the room.

"She did that for you," continued Matilda to the amazed wanderer returned. "She had an imaginary husband—I mean you. Think—think hard what you are going to say to her when she comes."

It needed no thinking, but Alan Frisbie blessed the loyal, loving little creature who had led his footsteps straight into the garden of love.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN

996,660 Ford Cars made from Aug 1st-1919 to Aug 1st 1920. Detroit Mich. — A marvelous achievement in production. But we are going to beat it this year.

It is a source of justifiable pride to know the production of Ford cars for the fiscal year ending July 31st 1920. In the factory in Highland Park reached the astonishing figures of 941,042 cars. While the Ford factory at Ford City Ont. Canada, made 55,618 cars. Total of the new Ford cars 996,660. Daily run capacity 3,500 cars. On more days run would have reached the million mark. Add to this that during the same twelve months, the company made 79,008 Tractors and the plant in Ford City Ont. Canada, made 2,647 Tractors. Total amount of tractors $1,655.

Almost on half of the motor cars in the world are Ford cars.

In the U. S. and Canada, a little better than one half of all the motor cars are Ford cars.

Close estimations find more than 300,000 Farm Tractors in the U. S. and we know we have made almost 150,000 Fordson farm tractors. Isn't it something to be proud of, an organization whose product is serving mankind wherever civilization has planted her feet? In every dark or light part of the globe, from far off Thibet, and the frozen places of Siberia and Alaska, Greenland, The Arctic Circle, and in the sunny climes of Siam and Java, in India and Africa, and our own God blessed America. The Ford car is giving its splendid, helpful service to civilization.

The Ford car has added unlimiting pleasure and happiness to millions of people who could not have enjoyed such pleasure if it would not have been for the Ford car and Fordson tractor. And made by "US" and each individual on the pay roll of the Ford Co. and taking part in the splendid activities of the company is a part of "US".

Congratulations to every member of the great Ford family."

HYNDMAN

Mr. C. Baker of Conneville visited friends here last week.

Mr. Charles Dunlap and family of Friedens, Pa. were Sunday visitors with friends here.

Mrs. Park Hill and little daughter of Pittsburgh are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hull.

The Parent-Teacher meeting was well attended last Wednesday evening. Dr. Ella Potter gave a very interesting talk on Child Welfare and Dr. C. R. Grissinger gave an illustrated lecture on the teeth and the care of them. The association gave a reception for the teachers of the Hyndman schools after the meeting. Dainty refreshments were served to all. Those from out of town were Misses Fannie Enfield, Margaret Peppie, Mrs. Wm. Brice, Jr., Mrs. Ayres, Dr. C. R. Grissinger, Dr. W. F. Enfield, Prof. C. E. Shapell, Mr. Ray Lysinger of Bedford and Dr. Ellen Potter of Philadelphia.

The following attended an apple cutting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Carpenter of near Hyndman last Monday evening: Mrs. Eugene Tewell of Saginaw, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. George Evans, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Fischer, Mrs. Charles Dwyer, Mrs. E. R. Bruner, Mrs. C. R. Rhodes, Mrs. Mary Vertz, Miss Bell Glatfelly, Misses Anna and Mary Meyers, Estelle Garber, Messrs. Leroy Shafter, A. G. Crabbe and J. W. Mcclay all of Hyndman. At a late hour all were invited to the dining room where everybody partook of the supper prepared by Mrs. Carpenter.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. George Hershiser.

Mrs. Eugene Tewell of Saginaw, Mich. is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hanson Cook.

SCHOOL LUNCH IS IMPORTANT

FEDERAL BUREAU OF EDUCATION BELIEVES ITS PROBLEMS SHOULD BE STUDIED.

PART OF HEALTH TEACHING

Ways in Which the Noon Repast May Be Made Valuable Otherwise Than As Mere Food—Parents Must Co-Operate With Teachers.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—According to the federal bureau of education, the school lunch is rapidly becoming a recognized part of our school system, and should therefore be established through the use of school funds, with the overhead expenses of conducting the lunch supplied from the same source. The day of the concessionaire is passing, says the bureau, and it can not pass too quickly, as it turns the lunch into a commercial enterprise, with the welfare of the children not the first and only consideration. No school lunch should be conducted at a profit. Even in the larger schools the receipts from the lunches should at the most only cover the cost of the raw food, of service, and other running expenses.

A careful study of school-lunch problems should be made in every school starting such work, as it is of the greatest importance that the lunch should be developed along the broadest possible lines. The co-operation and interest of the entire community are necessary, and the interest of the school boys and girls themselves should be aroused and maintained in every conceivable way. Good organization is necessary for successful work. The problems of organization and administration are here discussed, while the food problems themselves are not considered in detail. Valuable references on diet are available, and a selected list of these is given for the benefit of teachers who wish to inform themselves in regard to all aspects of the work. The knowledge, the interest and the enthusiasm of the teacher will determine the success of the undertaking.

Vital Part of Health Teaching.

The bureau says the lunch work should be a vital part of the health teaching in every school. The children who stay at school for lunch need hot food at the noon hour, but that is not all. An excellent opportunity is offered for instruction and training in right food habits, and teachers should take advantage of this to the fullest extent possible. The lunch at school should never become a perfunctory matter. It is not just a question of providing food, but is a means of teaching the boys and girls to eat in the right way the foods that are good for them.

Through the school lunch teachers may work very closely with the homes of the community and should know something of home conditions in their own districts. Common errors in the feeding of children are frequently repeated when teachers secure the interest and co-operation of the mothers.

Should Study Foreign Dishes.

The knowledge of home conditions is particularly important among foreign-born families, who usually do not know how to adapt their national food habits to American conditions. We know comparatively little about the various national dishes and their preparation, so thinks the bureau, and we do not yet realize how these foreign dishes may contribute to our own dietaries. Miss Bertha Wood of the Boston dispensary food clinic, who has recently made an investigation of the diets of foreign-born families, feels very strongly that such studies are necessary in helping foreign-born mothers with their food problems. Where there is a fair representation of certain nationalities among the pupils, some of their national dishes should be served at school from time to time. It will please and interest both parents and children, and the former will be eager to supply recipes and information as to the preparation of the dishes.

Teachers need not be afraid of teaching food values, asserts the bureau. Calories, proteins, carbohydrates and "vitamines" may be new terms for the children, but they can easily be made interesting ones. Lessons should be graphic and should appeal to the imagination. Posters, pictures, songs and stories should be used freely.

Principals of schools can do much in promoting an interest in food and diet throughout the school by including this subject in their talks at assembly periods. Where household science is taught, quite often only the girls receive instruction in food values and in diet. Both boys and girls need this, and the boys as well as the girls should take an active part in assisting with the lunch work.

Probably one of the most difficult things to accomplish is to persuade children to eat and like the foods which are best for them, concludes the bureau.

A Give-Away.

"What makes dinner so late today, sonny?" asked the summer boarder at the place where only home-grown food was served.

"Mother lost the can opener," replied the landlord's boy.—Boston Transcript.

HON. WARREN WORTH BAILEY,

General Assembly

SHERMAN R. NAVE,
Cumberland Valley

Johnstown, Pa., Sept. 21.—Although the voters generally in the Bedford, Cambria and Blair counties have not yet shown great interest in the presidential campaign, the real season for politics has been long begun, there has been a stir
in nearly every district of the three counties over the race being made by former Congressman
Warren Worth Bailey (Democrat)
of Johnstown against the Hon. John M. Rose, Republican incumbent. Indications are that Mr. Bailey will win, as he did twice before.

Cambria county is generally conceded to Mr. Bailey and Bedford is not counted with any certainty by the Republicans. In Blair county
there were complications which are rapidly resolving themselves into Bailey advantages and these reach well into Bedford. The Farmer-Labor party movement, which had its inception in Blair and which the Republican politicians hoped to convert into an asset, has shown stout resistance to O. P. schemers.
Neither the farmer nor the labor man, union or non-union, can be interested in the Rose candidacy,
while the non-partisan endorsement
of Mr. Bailey by the American Federation of Labor, and its condemnation of Congressman Rose and Walters on their young records at Washington, have increased the strength of Mr. Bailey in both agricultural and the industrial communities.

In the Altoona section, the bulwark of the labor political movement, registration shows that the workers have held to the old parties.
It is said by men familiar with conditions there that a large majority of the Farmer-Labor vote there will be taken from the Republican nominee, while many workers registered as Republicans will vote for Bailey.
This sentiment reaches out of the Altoona railroad shops into the Broad Top mining section and is strong throughout the mining sections of Cambria county.

Similar conditions have been found among the women who are qualifying to vote. The Democrats in the three counties have been powerfully reinforced by women who are taking an active interest.
Thousands of Republican women will vote for Bailey for various good reasons. This is particularly true in Johnstown, where Mr. Bailey is best known. Women who have assumed leadership as Republicans are openly supporting the Democrat nominee for congress. There is great resentment among the new voters because of the unnecessary troubles they have had in being assessed, paying taxes and in registering, the natural conclusion of the women being that if the Republican administration in state and county had really welcomed the women to the ballot box they would have made proper preparations to qualify the new voters.

Mr. Bailey has been canvassing the district. He states that the support coming to him is more encouraging than ever before and that the enfranchisement of the women is a great factor in the campaign. They are responding particularly to his appeal against universal compulsory military service
as proposed in the pending Kahn bill.

Letter From Japan.

Yokohama and greet me on arrival, something that I'll never forget, but I'm getting off the subject.

Now we have within five days had three great mass meetings like the next I'll tell you of. While we were at Nava, a delegation from Kobe and another from Osaka came to insist that we come to their city. We said
"yes" and they had but three or four day's notice. When we reached Kobe the first place we went we were met by the Governor and Mayor, both of whom are Christians, by many business and Sunday School people and about 200 Sunday school boys and girls. We were cheered wildly.
Kobe Sunday School Mass Meeting.
Their banners in Japanese read:
"God is Love" and those children followed after our cars as we were taken to some point of interest, first,
however giving the newspaper men
a chance at us for pictures. We were shown around the city, then to one of the newspaper buildings where tea and cake were served and an address of welcome made by the editor and responded to by Mr. Moore of our party. Pictures taken again,
then to another newspaper office
where tea, cake and pictures were again in order. At this plant the writer responded to the greetings.

Now, why were we taken to newspapers office? Here our home Christians might get a pointer. Why for publicity, Christian advertising and you should have seen the pictures in the paper next morning and the articles.

We had a real thrill when we were taken to the Y. M. C. A. Hall where eight hundred smaller Sunday School children had assembled to have a service of greeting. Again, I say, I never heard such singing. I believe every one joined in those good old hymns you all love so much.
The scriptural lesson was read by a small boy in Japanese then by one in English. Greetings were read by two small girls, one in Japanese and the other in English. Again Amen at the end of the prayers sounded and at the close of the service "Banzai" was again shouted. Enthusiasm backed up these schools, every one of them.

We were taken to the Shinko
Club and served a splendid dinner,
then back to one of the larger churches where several hundred Sunday School officers, teachers and all pastors were gathered and we all sang the same hymns dear to each
one. Addresses of welcome were made in English to which Mr. Moore, as leader of our party, responded and called on me. I had a twenty minute talk but it took forty minutes to say it this time. No, I was not frightened, far from it, but it had to be given through an interpreter
and I can't say I relish that style of speech making. The choir sang a chorus and a male quartette sang
"Nearer My God to Thee" in English then in Japanese. I have heard the Japanese sing their own songs but there is no beauty to them.
These hymns were rendered beautifully and our party speaks so much about their beautiful voices.

After the services we were taken to the station where farewells were said many times over (The Japanese are great for many farewells),
and as we got into our special car
those outside began singing in which we joined and again the cheer of
"Banzai, Banzai, Banzai" came to us.
Two members went along with us
on our journey and then returned to their homes late that night or in the wee hours of the morning for we did not get home till midnight ourselves. This is a Japanese courtesy, for at each of the other places
they have accompanied us back to our destination.

We are proud of the work our Christian brothers are doing in Japan and we are especially proud of her native teachers and preachers.
Never have seen Christians so devout and the work here is worthy of the best we can give them for with their thousands of temples and millions of shrines and the ancestral worship to overcome, I can say our men over here are putting up a great fight.

We leave here tonight for Korea.
Will be in Peking the middle of September and Manila the last of the month.

With my sincere good wishes to all and especially my many Sunday School friends, I am, Faithfully, your Co-Worker,
Henry C. Heckerman.

WIDOW WITH 10 CHILDREN

TAKES WIDOWER WITH 8

Connellsville, Pa.,—Immediately
after the minister performed the marriage ceremony, there were eighteen children in the home of Mr.
and Mrs. George Lopek, residing near here.

Mr. Lopek, a widower until the recent ceremony, is the father of eight children. The bride, the widow of Mr. Kasasink, is the mother of ten others.

The father of the eight and the mother of the other ten decided to give the dozen and a half the double care and support of both the father and mother.

The wedding followed and now
there are twenty in the Lopek household.

SHORT TALKS ON PENNA. FORESTSBy Gifford Pinchot, Chief Forester of PennsylvaniaNO. 7—RESPONSIBILITY OF TIM-BER OWNERS

No good citizen lets his property go to waste. The responsibility of the owner of timber land is similar in kind to the responsibility of the owner of farm land. In degree, the timber owner's responsibility is greater than the farmer's.

The farmer who would permit his fields to run down and lose their fertility, to grow nothing but weeds
and thistles, would very quickly become an outcast among his neighbors. When we come to think of it, the lumberman who permits his lands to be stripped of their timber,
and then allows fire to run, and takes no care of the young growth,
is exactly in the class of the outcast farmer.

The fault of the careless lumberman, however, is the greater, because a ruined farm can be brought back to a fair degree of fertility and productiveness in a few years, while a fire-swept and denuded timber tract can not be completely restored, however good the work put upon it, in the ordinary span of a man's life.

The day when timber tracts could be devastated without attracting attention has gone by. An awakened public interest demands that wasteful lumbering shall stop.

The responsibility of the timber
owner extends not only to his own property, but also to the entire countryside around his property.
The weeds in the run-down farm
may spread their seeds over the immediate neighborhood, but the damage which comes from a forest
area that has been destroyed spreads far more widely. The destruction of a water shed which follows the wiping out of a forest may cause havoc to people and property for many miles. And this has actually happened in many sections of Pen-sylvania.

Our flood problems would be less
were our forest areas growing trees.
Our water supplies would be inconstant and unreliable because of the inability of devastated forest lands to conserve the rainfall. Town and cities have been brought face to face with serious water troubles because of forest devastation.

It is the positive duty of the owner of lands valuable only for tree growth to keep forests growing upon these lands. We know enough about our forests to keep them growing. To get young trees growing in the ground, and to protect them
from fire and other enemies, are operations well within our present powers. They are not so involved, difficult, or highly technical as to require further detailed investigation, studies, and researches before starting to practice what we know already.

It is true that much remains to be learned about our numerous tree species. It is true that a systematic and comprehensive program of forest research is urgently needed.
But it is equally true that we have now knowledge enough to grow and protect valuable tree species upon any land where forests should be grown. We know it can be done because it is being done. Further studies will doubtless give us better practice and cheaper methods, but well-tested practice and effective methods are available. We are all ready to go ahead.

There is no sound or scientific reason for delay on the part of timber owners in taking the simple and obvious step necessary to insure an adequate and dependable supply of forest products, and to make permanent the economic advantage which comes to all people from the forests.

The responsibility of the timber land owner to our general economic welfare is unescapable.

TARIFF APPEARS
OUT OF POLITICSFEDERAL COMMISSION CREATED
IN 1916 HAS BEEN DOING VAST AMOUNT OF WORK.

IS ACCEPTED AS A FIXTURE

Present Congress Has Shown a Disposition to Accept Its Information Without Question and to Act on Its Suggestions.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—Has the tariff been taken out of politics? By an act of congress signed September 8, 1916, the United States tariff commission was created. It is composed of six members, appointed by the president by
and with the advice and consent of the senate, and not more than three of the commissioners shall be members of the same political party. It was the desire of congress to provide for a commission that would be as free as possible from political influence.

It will soon be four years since the commission was created. During these years it has done an enormous amount of work. It is today one of the busiest branches of the federal government. If congress should be called in extra session next week to revise the tariff, it would find the commission ready to supply it with accurate information on practically every branch of this intricate subject. Surveys and reports on more than 2,000 items in the existing tariff law have been made by the commission. Some of the reports have been printed, but the bulk of the information is in manuscript form.

The present congress has shown a disposition to accept, without question, the information supplied it by the commission. During the recent session the ways and means committee of the house of representatives,
in preparing several so-called "pop-gun" tariff bills, depended entirely on the commission for guidance.

Considered a Fixture.

Congress, as a whole, now looks on the tariff commission as a fixture. At the recent session an ample appropriation for carrying on the work of the commission was made.

The law creating the commission provides that the commission shall prosecute any inquiry necessary to its duties in any part of the United States, or in any foreign country.
Only recently the commission sent one of its investigators into Germany, with instructions to make a general survey
of industrial conditions there.

Three other investigators, who were selected because of their expert qualifications, for the study of particular industries, have been sent to Great Britain. They were directed to give chief consideration to certain of the metal and textile industries, but they will also devote attention to general industrial conditions.

Two other investigators have been sent to Japan. The commission has published a comprehensive survey of Japanese trade during the war, and it plans to supplement this report with a study of the tariff system and industrial conditions of Japan. It is taking notice of the concern in some quarters of the United States at the present time with regard to Japanese competition.

Makes Some Suggestions.

The function of the commission is to furnish congress with information,
but it is not prohibited from making suggestions with respect to policies.
It has recommended to the present congress the enactment of legislation authorizing the imposition of additional duties at the discretion of the president. In making this recommendation, it suggested that any policy adopted by the United States should have for its object, on the one hand,
the prevention of discrimination and
the securing of equality of treatment
for American commerce and for American citizens, and, on the other hand,
the frank offer of the same equality
of treatment to all countries that reciprocate in the same spirit and to the same effect.

In view of the work the commission has done, and is doing, and in view of the widespread demand that the tariff
be taken out of politics, a demand that finally resulted in the creation of a permanent tariff commission, observers here are not able to see how the tariff is likely to get into the campaign as an issue.

The present Republican congress has not shown much inclination to become interested in tariff legislation.
The house of representatives last spring put through a number of bills
making changes in the chemical schedule—changes suggested by the tariff commission, but the senate declined to enact any tariff legislation at all.
At no time has this congress thought seriously of taking up a general revision of the tariff.

Natural Conclusion.

"How are the managers doing with that aquatic spectacle?"
"Oh, they're coming on swim-mingly."

As Specified.

"Your suit begins to look a little rusty."
"Yes, my tailor guaranteed that it would wear like iron."—Judge.

KERR REUNION.

The week just closed has been one of general rejoicing for the Kerr sisters of Napier Twp. as it has been the reunion of their families for the first time in 33 years. This happy occasion was brought about when Mr.
A. N. Scott and wife Ida Kerr Scott of Upper Lake, California, returned to the old Kerr Homestead near Mann's Choice to spend a much deserved vacation with their many friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott arrived at the Kerr Homestead which is the birthplace of Mrs. Scott, two weeks ago and, after spending a very enjoyable week at that place, where they were entertained royally by their sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Kerr and family, a general reunion was held and all of the relatives first entertained at a sumptuous dinner party at the home of their oldest sister, Mrs. J. S. Bowser of Sulphur Springs Station, which was followed by a chicken and waffle
dinner at the home of another sister,
Mrs. Rebecca Croft of Mann's Choice.
The following relatives were among those present and an enjoyable time was had by all.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Scott, Upper Lake, California Mr. and Mrs. J. B.
Colvin, John Colvin, Jr., and Mary Colvin of Schellsburg, Mrs. Mary
Kerr, Miss Blanche Kerr and Mr. F.
G. Kerr all of Napier Twp., Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Martin of Altoona, Mr. and Mrs. H. Kerr Bowser and family of Sulphur Springs Station, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Manning of Philadelphia,
Mrs. Rebecca Croft and grand daughter Ruth, of Mann's Choice, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Myers of Mann's Choice,
Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Myers and family of Hyndman, Mr. and Mrs. L.
P. Myers and daughter Ida and Miss Pearl F. Myers of Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott, after spending the remainder of their time at the homes of Mrs. Scott's sisters, Mrs.
J. S. Bowser, Sulphur Springs Station,
Mrs. Rebecca Croft, Mann's Choice
and Mrs. J. B. Colvin of Schellsburg
and their other friends and relatives,
will return to their California home
via Washington, D. C., New York City, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Salt Lake City, etc., stopping enroute at the homes of Mrs. J. S. Martin of Altoona and Mrs. Scott's sister, Mrs.
M. J. George of Meyersdale.

Women Regard Duties of Suffrage

legislation for women suffrage.

Planks That Interest Women

In the Democratic Platform there are many planks directly affecting women and children.

They include:

Cooperation with the States for the protection of child life through infancy and maternity care.

Prohibition of child labor.

Adequate appropriations for the Children's Bureau and the Women's Bureau in the Department of Labor.

Full representation of women on all commissions dealing with women's work or women's interests.

Reclassification of the Federal Civil Service free from discrimination on the ground of sex.

Federal legislation which shall insure that American women residents in the United States, but married to aliens, shall retain their American citizenship.

The same process of naturalization shall be required for women as for men.

Increase in teachers' salaries.

Instruction in citizenship for both native and foreign born.

Increased appropriation for vocational training in home economies.

Reestablishment of Joint Federal and State employment service, with women's department under the direction of technically qualified women.

Cooperative Federal assistance to the States for the removal of illiteracy.

Continuance of appropriations for education in sex hygiene.

Ohio's Code of Child Legislation

Many of the planks in the Democratic National platform are almost identical with measures already effective in the Governor's home state.

Chief among these is Ohio's law effecting child welfare which is a codified revision of all the laws of the State affecting children; perhaps the first of its kind in the world, and which places that State above all others in its care of children. Every provision is made in it for the mental, moral and physical wellbeing of the child.

Another plank incorporated in the platform which has its counterpart in Ohio is that for an increase in the salaries of school teachers. The teachers of Cleveland this Fall will receive salaries approximately double those of the average in 1914.

The reduction of the excessive cost of living through the suppression of the profiteer has been one of the aims of Governor Cox. In Ohio his fight on profiteers eventuated in the conviction of cold storage operators who were holding foodstuffs to boost prices. It was he who suggested to the Federal Government the practicability of distributing the surplus stock of foods for the American expeditionary force, whereby thousands of pounds of foodstuffs for which dealers were asking exorbitant prices were sold to housewives at minimum prices.

Governor Cox also pointed out as a factor in the cost of living the excess profits tax, suggesting a substitute tax of from one to one and one-half per cent on the volume of business done by any going concern.

Industrial Ferment Settled

In the industrial upheaval that recently enveloped the country and threats of strikes were epidemic, Governor Cox brought order out of chaos in his state without resort to the State Guard and without in any way compromising the rights either of the workers or the general public.

Women during the world war gave ample evidence that no matter what their abhorrence of strife and carnage, they could and would do their part in waging it to the finish and to the crushing of power that sought to bring about conquest and oppression. Now that the war has ended in triumph of right they are set in their determination to do all in their power to bring about a situation that will make another such war impossible.

The Democratic platform has recognized the League of Nations as the best instrument to this end and Governor Cox in all his utterances in the campaign has shown himself to be in full sympathy with this plank. Summed up, the League of Nations would bring the chance of wars in future to an irreducible minimum. The League itself is an organization of twenty-nine nations, banded together to utilize every available means for settling disputes without resort to war. In the League are all the leading nations that were at war with Germany—except the United States.

Sarah Bloom Weyant, wife of Joseph Weyant died at her home Sept. 19, 1920 aged 73 years 6 months and 3 days. She is survived by her husband and the following children: Mrs. Annie Corie of Helena, Ohio, Joseph of Pavia, Charles of Queen, Hattie, Harry and Edward at home. She is also survived by sixteen grandchildren and eight great grandchildren. She was a member of the Imler Reformed Church. Her funeral took place from her late home, Bedford Rt. 5 Tuesday afternoon Sept. 22. Services were held in Trinity Reformed Church Rev. John A. Borger, Pastor. Interment was made in the adjoining cemetery.

ALBERT P. LATSHAW

Early in the morning of Sept. 23, 1920, Albert P. Latshaw died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. W. Davis, New Paris, aged 73 years, 11 months and 13 days. The deceased was born in Berks County near Reading. He came to Bedford County during the Civil War, and married Miss Sarah Cuppett. To them were given two sons, William Latshaw and Harry H. Latshaw of New Paris and three daughters, Mrs. Samuel Slick of Lovett, Mrs. John Carbaugh of Bedford and Mrs. H. W. Davis of New Paris. The deceased filled the offices of constable in Napier Township and school director in New Paris schaal district. He became a member of the Methodist church more than forty-two years ago. His wife preceded him in death on Jan. 29 1916. In addition to his children, he is survived by Jonathan and Joseph Latshaw of West Reading, brothers, and Mrs. Mary Moyer of Wyomissing and Mrs. Susan Varner of Varnerstown, sisters. Funeral services were conducted on Saturday in the Reformed church at New Paris by the pastor of the M. E. church, the Rev. D. W. Kerr. Interment was made in the Reformed cemetery near the church.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The work of the Bedford Schools is progressing nicely under the professional care of a full corps of able teachers. Because of the large enrollment a few rooms were slightly handicapped on account of supplies, but all the needs along this line are satisfied.

The high school students are showing a great deal of interest in athletics. There is foot-ball practice for the boys every afternoon, and because of the steady effort of the boys the schools will be reconstituted with a strong team. The management is scheduling a series of games and during October and November there will be a game every Saturday. The Thanksgiving day game with Roaring Springs to be played at Bedford will be the most important game of the season. The full schedule will be announced later.

The Health program, a new feature of the course of study requires all high school students to take two periods a week of supervised outdoor exercise. If you have passed the school grounds in the afternoon and have seen the boys and girls lined up in groups and going through numerous exercises you have seen the work of this feature of the program. Other interesting innovations in the program are the courses offered in Drawing, General Science, and Modern Progress.

The Principal will be in his office every morning from 8:40 to 9:40 to receive calls from patrons of the schools and to discuss with them progress of individual pupils and of the group. Parents should feel free to use this opportunity to talk with the proper person or persons about school work. The cooperation of all parents and their active interests in school work is earnestly requested by the administration.

V. S. Geisel who has been in the Garage business at Alum-Bank, has been appointed manager of the A. P. Penrose Undertaking Establishment here.

Mr. Geisel is a graduate of the Bekels School of Embalming of Philadelphia, Pa. and was formerly assistant to G. C. Meek of Windber.

The establishment has all new equipment, including a line new motor hearse and is in a position to render service at anytime.

"You have lost your position in the bank," spoke Norma Drury. "Oh, father! how can that be!"

Martin Drury's head was bent low, he was pale and agitated and acted like a man who had received a heavy blow.

"Not because of any dishonesty, Norma," he said, bravely attempting a smile. "Since I was given charge of the securities cage my salary has been raised and I seem to have pleased both Mr. Wardell, the president of the bank, and the directors with my services. Today I carried all the Liberty bond packets to the desk of Mr. Wardell for him to check up. He returned them an hour later. Then I was called to the cashier's desk on some business. When I returned to assort the packets one was missing—No. 23. Mr. Wardell's schedule showed he had checked it, with the others. It was for $3,000. It was gone, and the only fault found with me was that I had left the packets on my desk when hurriedly called by the cashier, instead of first placing them in the vault."

"Then—"

"Somebody on the watch, it is assumed, reached through the wicket and extracted the $3,000 packet."

"And Mr. Wardell?"

"Consulted the directors. He was kind enough and just enough to vouch for my integrity, but said that I was getting old, that I needed less responsible work and has offered to retain me at a reduced salary, but in an inferior position. It is hard lines!" and the voice broke. "My pride—my pride—"

Norma came up to her father and twined her arms about him. "Dear father," she said tenderly. "I shall give up my preparations to become a teacher. You have had me help you so much with bank work you have brought home evenings that I have practically learned the business, as you may say. At all events we are responsible for a loss of $3,000. Together we will make it good."

That was the amazing proposition Norma Drury made to stern, systematic Martin Drury the next day. If the old financier was secretly moved by the filial act and sacrifice of the loyal young girl, he did not betray the fact. In his cool, methodical way he accepted the proffer, and one quarter of the joint compensation of father and daughter was each month to be retained and credited on the loss account.

If Mr. Drury felt humiliated by his reduction in working rank it was more than made up for in having Norma for company in the bank. He grew a little more gray, a little more bent, but he was proud of his daughter and their mutual work for a noble object filled both with a high sense of duty sturdily faced.

David Wardell's health failed and he was ordered to a sanitarium for permanent treatment. A month later he died and his only son, Sydney, was summoned from college to take charge of the affairs of the bank. He was a bright, intelligent fellow and from the start Norma attracted him. When he learned all the details of her connection with the bank there appeared a high order of respect and admiration in his manner toward her. He never alluded to the loss of the bonds, but twice in the ensuing year he advanced Mr. Drury in position and salary. He came to Norma one day, later.

"Miss Drury," he said, "you have done such faithful, helpful work during the past year, that the bank has decided to send you away for a month's vacation, bearing all expenses and your salary to run on the same with a 25 per cent raise for next year."

"You are very kind, but do I deserve it?" spoke Norma.

"We think so," declared Sydney heartily, and Norma felt that he was genuinely sincere. It was a rest she craved and enjoyed. The happy four weeks ended in a surprise. The day before setting out for her return she received a note from her father that considerably mystified her. It informed her that young Wardell would be at Leeville the next morning on an automobile trip, and that he would call for her and drive her home. It was not strange that Norma fluttered and marveled when the young man arrived next day.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 3
THE BIRTH AND CHILDHOOD OF JESUS.

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 2: 1-15
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt call his name Jesus, for he shall save his people
from their sins.—Matt. 1:21.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Isa. 7:14-18,
Micah, 5:2, Luke 1 and 2.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Wise Men Visit
the Child Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Child Jesus Escapes From a Wicked King.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
—The Coming of the King.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
—The King Comes as a Little Child.

Since we now have six months of study in the Gospel according to Matthew, every teacher should grasp the book as a whole and present each lesson in its relation to the central purpose of the book. The central theme of Matthew is Jesus Christ the King—
the fulfiller of the Messianic hope.

I. The Birth of the King (1:18-25).
The Messiah was to be the seed of a woman—the son of a virgin (Gen.
3:15; Isa. 7:14). This was fulfilled in the birth of Jesus. The genealogy as given in Matthew 1:1-17 shows his legal right to the throne; but had he been that only, he could not have been the Savior from sin. He must be both human and divine (Isa. 9:7). The Messiah was begotten by the Holy Ghost and born of the Virgin Mary, thus becoming Immanuel, which term means in all its fullness, God for us; God with us; God in us.

II. The Magi Seek Israel's King (2:1, 2).

The King had a most heartless reception. The kingdom was not ready for him. His advent was heralded by a star which guided souls from a foreign nation to seek and worship him, pouring out their gifts to him. These wise men were either Arabian or Persian astrologers, students of the stars.
The appearance of an unusual star attracted their attention. Perhaps they were acquainted with the famous prophecy of Balaam (Num. 24:17).
Doubtless through the influence of the Jews who remained in Chaldea, or the direct influence of Daniel extending to this time, they had become acquainted with the hope of a Messiah.
The light they had was dim, but they lived up to the best they had. To those who act upon the best light they have, God always gives more. To those who refuse to act upon the knowledge given, God not only refuses to give more, but brings into confusion that which they already possess (Matt. 25: 28).

III. Herod Seeking to Kill the King
(vv. 3-8).

The news brought by the Magi struck terror to Herod's heart. He was not alone in this, for all Jerusalem was troubled with him. The news ought to have brought joy. A glimpse at the social customs in and about Jerusalem at that time, will enable us to understand why this news brought uneasiness to the people. They were living in the greatest of luxury. Fine dresses, sumptuous feasts, fine houses, etc., led to gross immorality. We can thus readily see why Herod and all Jerusalem should be troubled. They did not want a Savior who would save them from their sins; they wanted to continue in them. Herod demanded of the priests and scribes information as to where Christ should be born. They soon were able to tell him, showing that they had a technical knowledge of the Scriptures, but no heart for the Savior set forth therein. The luxuriousness of the wealthy the frivolities of the fashion-loving,
and the gross immoralities to which they lead, make Jesus Christ unwell-
come in many quarters today.

IV. The King Found (vv. 9-12).

The Magi having obtained the desired information, started immediately to find the King. As soon as they left the city, the star which had guided them from the East appeared again to lead them on. When they found him, they worshiped him. Note God's overruling providence in all this. Hundreds of years before, the Prophet said that Christ should come forth from Bethlehem (Micah 5:2). God so ordered that Mary should be brought to the city to give birth to Christ. God ordered that the Magi should depart another way, thereby defeating Herod's wicked purpose. The gifts of these wise men, God put into the hands of Joseph and Mary before going to Egypt. Doubtless they served a good purpose in meeting their expenses during their stay there.

V. The King Protected (vv. 13-15).

To escape Herod's wicked aim, God directed Joseph to take Mary and the child Jesus and flee to Egypt. In obedience to the heavenly vision, he went and remained until Herod's death.

In Giving Alms.
In giving of thine alms inquire not so much into the person, as his necessity. God looks not so much on the merits of him that requires, as to the manner of him that relieves. If the man deserve not, thou hast given to humanity.—Quarles.

Think of Our Own Sins.
So long as we are full of self we are shocked at the faults of others.
Let us think often of our own sins,
and we shall be lenient to the sins of others.—Feneion.

CLAY PRODUCTS SHOW BIG GAINS

VALUE OF THOSE MARKETED IN UNITED STATES DURING 1919
HIGHEST YET RECORDED.

BAD CONDITIONS OVERCOME

Tremendous Demand for Buildings of All Kinds Caused Immense Increase In the Output—Common Brick Regains Its Old Rank.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—The value of the clay products marketed in the United States last year is estimated by the United States geological survey at $260,790,000, the highest yet recorded.
This is an increase of $40,216,000 compared with 1918 and of $28,277,000 compared with 1917, and is nearly $100,000,000 greater than the value ten years ago. The value of brick and tile products constituted 71 per cent and that of pottery products 29 per cent of the total.

The removal of war-time restrictions, the partial return to normal conditions, and the crying need of the country for buildings of all kinds,
which consume the greater proportion of the clay products, caused the great increase in the output and value of the clay products marketed in 1919,
though the increase in the selling price
no doubt helped to increase the value.
Every kind of clay product except fire
brick made a gain in quantity as well as in value, and the increase in the output of almost every product was greater proportionally than the average increase in price.

The increases in 1919 were made in spite of a shortage of labor, fuel and transportation, and the timidity of capital to invest in new buildings on account of the high cost of construction and the consequent small returns.

Output of Fire Brick Increased.

The large decrease in the output and value of fire brick, which was used in immense quantities in the manufacture of munitions during the war, was only natural. Another cause for the decrease, however, was the strike in the steel industry, the principal consumer of fire brick.

The average price per unit increased very little in 1919 as compared with 1918. Common brick increased in price 17 per cent, face brick 15 per cent, hollow tile eight per cent and vitrified brick or block 30 per cent.
The average increase in price of all these wares from 1918 to 1919 was 73
per cent.

Structural clay products as a whole (mainly brick and tile) were valued in 1919 at $102,850,000, or 56 per cent of the total, compared with $66,209,300
in 1918. Engineering products (vitrified brick, sewer pipe and drain tile)
rose in value from $30,675,000 in 1918
to $37,800,000, or 20 per cent of the total, in 1919. Refractories (fire brick and stove lining) decreased in value
from $52,322,000 in 1918 to $36,900,000
in 1919, 20 per cent of the total. Miscellaneous products constituted four
per cent.

Common brick regained its rank as the clay product of greatest value in 1919; but notwithstanding the large gain shown in the accompanying table, production in 1919 was the smallest yet recorded by the United States
geological survey, except that in 1918.
The average price per thousand in 1919, $12.79, was the highest recorded by the geological survey.

Face brick showed the next largest increase in actual quantity and value
and by far the largest percentage of increase.

Big Gain for Building Tile.

Hollow building tile or block, which has been steadily gaining in use, increased in both output and value in 1919, and its value was the highest recorded being greater by 25 per cent
than in 1917, the year in which it had next greatest value.

Tile (not drain) also made a considerable increase in value in 1919
and reached a record value $7,250,000.
The year of next highest output was 1917, when the value was $6,821,221.

Architectural terra cotta, which in 1918 reached its lowest value since 1900, rallied in 1919; but with the exception of the years of 1908 and 1915,
its value was the lowest since 1904.

With the removal of government restriction on road building the output of vitrified brick or block in 1919
increased somewhat but was apparently below the normal, having been little more than half the average reached during the preceding ten years. The average price per thousand in 1919, $23.11, was the highest ever recorded.

The value of sewer pipe and drain-tile also showed large gains in 1919,
having been exceeded only in 1917.
Owing to the increased cost of manufacture of sewer pipe the quantity marketed in 1919 probably did not exceed that marketed in 1918.

The value at the port of shipment of the clay products imported in 1919
was $7,360,535, an increase of $682,835
over 1918. This increase was in pottery, the imported brick and tile products declining in value in 1919.

Low Estimate of Value.

"Wasn't Higgins a 'dollar-a-year man'?"

"He was," replied Mr. Growcher
"And considering the amount of work
he did he ought to send the dollar to the conscience fund."

WEEKLY PAY

It Costs Less---At First

To bury in a wooden box, a slate or brick cistern or even a cement vault with an unsealed lid costs less than the Norwalk. A heavy top lowered and sealed by hand is naturally more expensive. But once you have seen with your own eyes the workmen cement the top and bottom of the Norwalk Vault together into one solid piece of masonry you are satisfied; and that comfort is worth any price you could pay. That's why every modern undertaker is glad to use the Norwalk—he can guarantee his work.

Five Minute Chats on Our Presidents

By JAMES MORGAN

(Copyright, 1920, by James Morgan.)
JOHN ADAMS AND ABBY

1735—Oct. 19, John Adams born, Braintree, Mass.
1755—Graduated at Harvard.
1764—Married.
1774-77—In Congress.
1775-88—On Mission to France.
1785-88—Minister to England.

A SCHOOLGIRL complained that American history was so "littered up with Adamases" that she couldn't tell one from the other. Yet this most distinguished family in our national biography lived in America one hundred and fifty years before it broke into fame.

When the engagement was announced of John Adams of Braintree, Mass., to the daughter of Parson Smith of the adjoining town of Weymouth, people were shocked that Abby should marry so beneath her station. Was she not a Quincy and a Norton? And John, the son of a small farmer, was put down to fourteenth place among his twenty-four classmates, when Harvard catalogues were made up according to social rank. After that he taught school in Worcester to get enough money to study law, and the strictest of the Puritans looked on lawyers as ungodly.

Father-in-Law Smith was game, and tradition says that he preached down his gossiping parishioners from this well-chosen text: "John came neither eating bread nor drinking wine, and ye say he hath a devil!"

Although she never went to school, this parson's daughter was by long odds the cleverest in the entire line of our president's wives, her published letters forming a delightfully human document in our too often unhuman history. When John joined the fathers of the republic in the great work of setting up the most masculine government the world ever saw, this mother of the republic had to stay home to rock the cradle, cook and patch for four little Adamases and to tend the farm. Milking and churning, knitting and darning, teaching and praying, toiling and saving, she supported the family, inspired her husband in his progress to the presidency, and reared a son to follow in the father's footsteps. To Abigail Adams alone belongs the glory of having been the wife of one president and the mother of another.

In the war, it fell to Adams to do picket duty in Europe. Congress sent him to France with a thoughtful warning to put in the bottom of his dispatch bag plenty of lead or stone or other weighty substance to sink his papers. For his own neck no protection was proposed in event of the British capturing a signer of the rebel manifesto of July 4, 1776. Nevertheless, he took with him on the perilous trip his ten-year-old son, John Quincy.

On the next voyage, he carried not only John Quincy, but also his second son, and they were shipwrecked off the coast of Spain.

After five long, anxious years of separation from husband and children, the mother herself sailed to Europe, and the pioneer American woman to appear at the Court of St. James was Abigail, the farmerette of Braintree. Her presentation costume, according to her own description, was white lute-string "covered with white crepe, festooned with lilac ribbon and mock-point lace, over a hoop of enormous extent, and with a narrow train three yards long; also ruffle cuffs, treble lace ruffles and dress cap, with long lace lappets and two white plumes."

"You will be stared at a great deal," the Duke of Dorset kindly warned the Adamases. On the contrary, every back in the court circle was turned upon the Yankee rebels and Queen Charlotte received Abigail with "contempt and scorn."

A man can defend himself always, as Abigail's husband did right manfully when it fell to him to be the first independent American to stand before the throne of England. George III venturing to infer from his supposed dislike of France, a preference for England, his one-time subject frankly corrected the king: "I must avow to your majesty that I have no attachment but to my own country."

"Jonasson" Individualized Women's Apparel of High Quality

Presented in a Variety of Styles

An autumn display of authentic apparel modes selected from the fashion centers of the world and assembled on our Floors awaits the approval of women who appreciate the ideals of this store, and the high standards maintained in its merchandise.

Fashion this season, while usually preserving slender, straight lines, is lavish with the embroidery idea developed in beading, silk patterns, stitchery in silk and metallic threads and the clever use of fur for certain types of Suits.

Contained in our assortments of Dresses, Coats and Suits you will find expressions of the approved modes.

Princess, Redingote and Russian lines prevail in Frocks.

Suits showing great versatility of fabric, designing and trimmings are here to please the individual taste.

Coats, luxurious, "wrappy," softly toned, and of exquisitely soft fabrics are distinctive and desirable.

An apparel collection of merit to please women of the most discriminating preferences. Prices correctly and fairly placed.

Home Dollars Turn the Wheels of Home Industry

Make the most of your home dollars by keeping them
in your home county where they will help pay taxes,
build roads, maintain good schools and generally benefit the community. This can best be done by patronizing home merchants.

Home industry depends upon a home bank for the necessary funds for paying home people wages and salaries,
buying raw materials, and meeting necessary expenses.
You can help by depositing your surplus dollars in this strong bank where they will earn interest for you. In helping to turn the wheels of home industry, they add to the prosperity of every man, woman and child in the county.

When a Woman is Nervous—Worried

Most women neglect their health,
and for this they pay the penalty.
Any woman will find that neglect does not pay. A little more attention to health would brighten up her life. If she asks her neighbors she finds that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription benefits a woman's whole system. It not only acts upon the troubles and weaknesses peculiar to women, but is an all-round tonic that braces the entire body, overcoming nervousness, sleeplessness,
headaches, dizziness and a rundown condition.

WILKES-BARRE, PA.—"A few years ago I went down in health;
my nerves were bad and I became very weak and thin and would have severe pains in my head. I also suffered with nervousness. I could not sleep at night I was so nervous, and was not able to do any work. I doctored and took medicines but could find nothing that would give me any relief until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and this completely restored my health. I regained my weight and my general health was much better than it had been previously. Knowing how beneficial the Prescription was in my case I feel safe in recommending it."—MRS.

HELP THE KIDNEYS

BEDFORD READERS ARE LEARNING THE WAY.

It's the little kidney ills—
The lame, weak or aching back—
The unnoticed urinary disorders—
That may lead to dropsy and Bright's disease.
When the kidneys are weak.
Help them with Doan's Kidney Pills.

A remedy especially for weak kidneys. Ask your neighbors. Doan's have been used in kidney troubles for 50 years. Endorsed by 50,000 people—endorsed at home.

Proof in a Bedford citizen's statement.

Mrs. J. C. Manges, W. Pitt St., says: "Some time ago had a bad spell of kidney complaint which caused my back to become weak. I could hardly do my housework on account of the pains in my back which were there constantly. I started the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and gradually my back became stronger and my kidneys normal. It was not long before this medicine cured me and I haven't been troubled since. I cannot say too much for this medicine.

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Manges had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

BEDFORD, PA.

VETERANS IN CONGRESS

John Walter Smith, the last of the old-time Democratic bosses in the Senate, is having a battle royal to succeed himself. He has taken the side of the "drys," after years of shoulder-to-shoulder work with the "wets." His Republican opponent, O. E. Weller, leans to the "wets," but not very strong in his views, is confronted with bitter factional controversies in his own party. W. Ashby Hawkins, a colored lawyer of Baltimore, is running for the Senate on an Independent Republican ticket. Heretofore, the negroes have voted almost solidly with the Republicans and unless Hawkins is pulled down Weller will suffer. Senator Smith is threatened with a split in his ranks. George Iverson, Jr., a "wet" Democrat has announced that he will run for the Senate. He is a member of the House of Delegates and was the leader of the "wets" fight in the Legislature.

Maryland is the centre of a half-dozen wet and dry contests. The confusion is so great that the leaders dare not make a prediction on the result.

Fordson Farm Tractor

More than 100,000 Fordson Tractors have been sold to the farmers in the United States. They are helping those farmers do more and better work in less time and at less cost. North, East, South, West,—everywhere the Fordson has proven itself a money-maker and a real necessity to the farmer. Besides it is helping mightily to solve the labor problem.

These One Hundred Thousand and more practical farmers have affirmed the economy—the exceptionally low fuel and operating cost—of the Fordson, its time and labor saving qualities and its ability to increase production. The Fordson was built to be the most economical tractor; it is compact and devoid of excessive weight. And it is built of the same strong iron and steel as is the Ford car.

Winter or bad weather does not hinder the Fordson's usefulness. Day or night—twenty-four hours a day if you choose—you can utilize the Fordson.

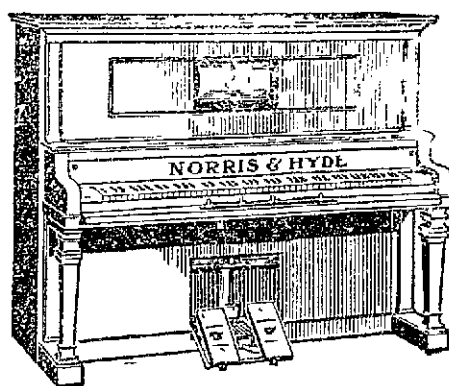

Only so many Fordsons are allotted this territory. Orders are being filled in sequence—first come first served. Let us have yours now.

There's a practical use for the Fordson every day of the year. Let's tell you. Come in and have a tractor talk. Give us the chance to make a demonstration on your own farm.

Certain-teed Roofing Costs Less to Lay

You will appreciate the low cost and convenience of laying Certain-teed Roofing.

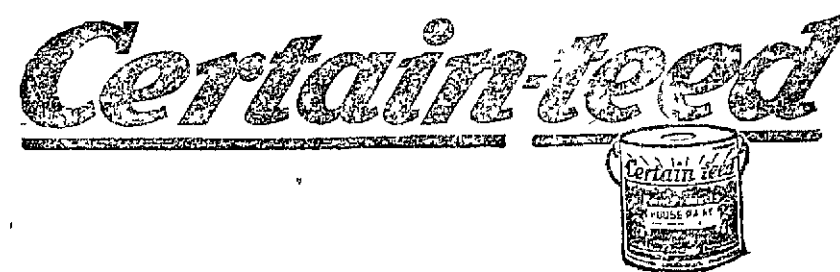

Skilled labor is not required to lay it properly. You save much of the expense of hiring trained workmen and avoid delays because of a scarcity of such men.

But this is only one of the Certain-teed economies. It costs less to buy and less to maintain than any other type of good roofing.

In addition, Certain-teed roofing is weather-proof, fire-retarding and spark-proof. It is guaranteed for five, ten or fifteen years, according to weight. Experience proves that it usually outlasts its guarantee by years of satisfactory service.

See your dealer about Certain-teed Roofing. If he can't fill your entire order from stock, he can get what you want quickly from a nearby Certain-teed distributing center.

THE CORN ROAST OF 1920

So read the invitations which went out a little while ago, and so indeed it proved to be—THE corn roast of 1920. It stands and will continue to stand in a class by itself. Everything united to make it ideal, from the standpoint of an afternoon's pleasure. First there was an ideal host and hostess back of it—big-hearted Charlie Longenecker and his equally great hearted wife planned it as a treat for many of their friends. The place was the beautiful meadow at their farm near Waterside; the time was Tuesday afternoon September 21st. A beautiful afternoon it was, and such a crowd of people as assembled might well warm the heart of any man to be able to count them as his friends. A splendid program was provided for the entertainment of the guests—something "going" every minute. John R. Dull was "Ring Master" and had he escaped from "Barnums" he would not have done better. Among other able assistants were, in "Showing up Ruth" Mr. Harold S. Smith; "Ticking the Almond Eyed Teaser" Mr. D. C. Kelley; "Escaped Nuts in the Race of Death" Mr. P. N. Risser. John P. Cuppett had a ring all to himself in which the ladies gained 50 points by "Taming Jumping Jupiter. The Backing Broncho." The preacher "took the cake" because he knew what some preachers don't know—when to STOP. He tried mightily hard for the chicken too—as all preachers do, but Cuppett tossed him out and got away with the bird. Mrs. Jere C. West was awarded the woman's prize—an enormous roll of butter—because she was the smartest woman present, having won the greatest number of points; and perhaps because she was the "smartest" she was voted the "most popular woman" present. A similar honor on the men's side, in the popularity contest was awarded to Mr. Dull. Among the minor things attended to was the election of Harding as the next President by an overwhelming vote. Of course the ladies voted as their husbands told them to vote. The "eats"—no man can describe them. Herbert Hoover never would have given his sanction to such abundance in the palmiest days of his power. There was corn, juicy and brown, right out of the hot coals—and piles of butter to lubricate it; "Wiene" sandwiches by the barrel; coffee, milk, buttermilk, cider and even apple pie. Prof. Hinkle was so impressed by the whole proceedings that he got up and made a speech and told everybody just how he was feeling and everybody just cheered and cheered as though in their inward parts they were feeling the same way. And then to add to all, as though nature had not done enough by sending the sunshine for the afternoon she sent the "moon-shine" for the evening until all about the hills and meadows were bathed in beautiful light, and the little stream, like a silver ribbon wended its way in and out among the banks. It was a time not soon to be forgotten by those who had the privilege of being present and all departed wishing in their hearts that Charlie and his good wife might live at least another year.
